PROFILE

I currently serve as an Officer in the Argentine Navy. For the last two years, I immersed myself in the world of web development, which from the first moment managed to capture all my attention and curiosity. I consider myself passionate about new technologies and I love to always be in constant learning. Thanks to my unique degree training that mixes engineering and administration within a military framework, and my background as an Officer in the Armed Forces, I think it is a powerful combination that allows me to tackle any job or task.
